This program focuses on both simple and complex personnel investigations including allegations of criminal wrongdoing, harassment, and other unique scenarios requiring nuanced investigative practices. This program would provide supervisors with practical and legal guidance for handling personnel matters from the beginning stages of the investigative process through the discipline stage. This program would also focus on the practical and legal importance of conducting thorough and detailed personnel investigations, as well as strategic considerations for pursuing and imposing appropriate disciplinary action.

(This course is primarily for public sector organizations.)
